Meet The Team

Amparo Díaz

Data & Impact, Grants, Program Management

Amparo recently moved back to her hometown on the southwest Texas-México border after spending over a decade in central Texas where she served as a K12 educator for a non-profit run charter school, a program manager with a large civil rights organization, and a program officer with a national private family foundation. Amparo is passionate about increasing representation in the philanthropic sector and supporting change efforts to increase the number of people from marginalized communities that serve as foundation staff and that are funded as foundation grantees. She earned her master's in sociology from Texas State University and is excited to support nonprofit organizations and grantee-funder relationships as a Nonprofit Partnerships Manager with Resilia

Angelica Diaz-Rivera

Board Management, Grants, People Operations, Strategic Planning

Currently based in Central Florida, Angelica has used her Master's in Nonprofit Management to provide nonprofits with the knowledge, tools, and inspiration they need to succeed and elevate their mission efforts. Before joining Resilia, Angelica served as a consultant for several BIPOC and grassroots led organizations spread across the nation. Her focus included assisting organizations with strategic planning, board development, grant writing, and more. She strongly believes in the power of diversity and collaborative thinking and is eager to assist nonprofits in generating more creative, efficient, and data-driven solutions that help them reach their full potential.

Angelica Suarez

Fundraising, Marketing Communications, People Operations, Storytelling, Strategic Planning

Angelica has helped local and international organizations build strategies that drive their mission, vision, and values. She started her career as a social entrepreneur starting an international nonprofit organization helping internally displaced people in her homeland - Colombia. She has held various leadership and managerial roles for higher education institutions and state and local nonprofits. She completed her undergraduate education at the University of Florida and pursued a Master's Degree in Public Administration and Conflict Resolution at Syracuse University. She is a certified OKR coach, Psychological Safety Practitioner, and an IDEO certified leader for Business Innovation.

Anthony Mickens

Compliance, Event Management, Fundraising, Grants, People Operations, Program Management, Strategic Planning

A San Francisco Native, for the past 30 years Anthony has worked towards building a better future for students, families and communities throughout the San Francisco Bay Area. Anthony has had the pleasure of helping to build organizations and programming that has supported thousands of students and families in an array of areas that include: job skills training, environmental education, academic achievement, college access and completion, mental health and youth development. A former Executive Director, Anthony has extensive experience in the areas of nonprofit management, board management, fundraising, grants management, donor cultivation and stewardship, communications, strategic planning and partnership development.

Erin Kahn

Data & Impact, Program Management, Volunteer Management

Born and raised in the Bay Area, Erin's journey began as a science educator, later transitioning to EdTech. She empowered district leaders and educators to leverage technology to shift to more learner-centered practices there. She is passionate about uplifting nonprofit missions and's committed to enhancing customer experiences and driving impact through grantee support and capacity-building. Beyond her role, Erin finds solace in the outdoors with her family - exploring trails, mountain biking and running.

Kayla Kuboyama, MPA

Rachel Costa
Event Management, Fundraising, Volunteer Management

Rachel Costa has almost 20 years of professional experience across the private and public sectors, spending the first half of her career in event marketing and advertising before following her passion to mission-driven work. Prior to joining Resilia, Rachel was the Director of Advancement for the Children's Environmental Literacy Foundation. Based in Westchester, NY, she helped CELF expand their work to new territories, embedding sustainability and environmental equity into school culture and curricula in K-12 schools in NYC, across the tristate area, and Texas. Rachel was previously the Director of Advancement at the Dream-Yard Project, an arts and social justice organization, where she spent 6 years raising critical resources for young people in the Bronx. She received a B.A. in Psychology from Boston University, an M.A. in Criminal Justice from John Jay College, as well as a Certificate in Fundraising from NYU's School for Professional Studies. Rachel also completed the prestigious Leadership Fellows New York program in 2018. This fellowship is designed for nonprofit leaders who are advancing social justice missions in New York and beyond, designed to strengthen participant's knowledge and skills in equity-focused leadership, management, financial planning, resource mobilization, and communications.

What Our Customers Are Saying

“ Resilia’s storytelling resources have been very useful in offering teachable moments as we work through improving our fundraising newsletters, focusing on crafting impactful stories to share with our supporters. The ability to have the additional support of a professional review by their team of nonprofit experts has been extremely helpful as we expand our staff. ”
